

A HIGH WATER SURVEY

To be Made at the Location of the Proposed Steel Bridge to

CONNECT BELLAIRE AND BENWOOD.

The Indications are that the Bridge will be Built in the Near Future, The Wheeling Railway Company's Lines will Enter Bellaire if it is Built—Will Help Wheeling's Retail Business.

The presence of a party of surveyors down at Bellaire last summer, who made surveys for a proposed bridge across the river, to connect Bellaire and Benwood, was noted in the INTELLIGENCER at that time. It is now learned that the surveyors will return and go over their measurements as soon as the river rises, probably within the coming month. This is to be done so it will be known with certainty that the plans for the structure will not conflict with the river navigation regulations of the United States government.

The people at the head of the project to connect Benwood and Bellaire by a bridge, are of Pittsburgh, and they are not giving out their intentions to an alarming extent—in fact, they are about as dumb as oysters. However, it is learned, that the men who are thinking of investing their money in a bridge there think very highly of the situation and the probable large trade they would handle. If the bridge is built there is no doubt that the Wheeling Railway Company will secure the right to run its electrical street car line over the structure to Bellaire. This would be of great benefit to Wheeling and Bellaire. The Ohio town would be connected direct with this city, just as Bridgeport and Martin's Ferry are now by the Wheeling railway lines. The result would be added trade for the Wheeling retail establishments.

I had a choking sensation, was troubled with night sweats, and had dyspepsia in very severe form. After taking Hood's Sarsaparilla two weeks the choking spells and dyspepsia troubled me no more. I have now taken several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and find that I am entirely cured."
